Josephine was a very clever student but was unable to attend secondary school when her family's fortunes changed with the death of her father from cancer. Now a successful university graduate, she thanks the whole CHES Community for her CHES scholarship which transformed her life.

Dear Friends of CHES,

Because of your interest in furthering the Secondary Education of bright girls in Kenya and Tanzania whose families cannot afford to send them to school, once again, we are initiating an Annual Fundraising Appeal to finance additional scholarships, provide academic support, life skills and Girls' Empowerment workshops and to improve girls' living conditions in school dormitories.

We are extremely appreciative of donations to these endeavours because they have enabled our girls to build better lives for themselves, their families and their communities. This truly is the gift that keeps on giving.

Maggie is a CHES grad who grew up in a polygamous family as one of 20 children. After Graduation she specialized in community development work and has been elected to the United Women of Tanzania Council as the representative from the Manyara Region. The focus of her work is empowering women and girls. "I was empowered by CHES", she tells us, "and I want to empower others and be a voice for my people."

We NEED your help.

There are three ways to contribute:

DONATE
NOW

Thank you very much for your support and if you are so inclined, it would be wonderful if you could pass this request on to a friend.

On behalf of all our girls,

Asante Sana (many thanks) for your support.

Magreth's father was tragically killed by a car as he walked beside the road. This devastated and impoverished her family. Without a CHES scholarship it would have meant the end of her schooling. She's now graduated from Form 4 with top marks in her district and wholeheartedly thanks her sponsors for enabling her to follow her dream of becoming a doctor.
